(d) if so, the Government's reaction thereto along with the future plan in this regard?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF ENVIRONMENT AND FORESTS (SHRI NAMO NARAIN MEENA): (a) Yes, Sir. The Fourth Assessment Report of the Inter-Governmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) of 2007, following the Third Assessment Report in 2001 contains observations based on the Studies of trends in the physical and biological environment and their relationship to regional climate changes. The Report acknowledges the limitations and gaps in terms of the limited number of systems and locations considered; constraints in identification of changes due to external forcing on account of larger natural temperature variability at the regional than the global scale; and a notable lack of geographic balance in data and literature on observed changes, with marked scarcity in developing countries. Given the stated constraints, the Report notes incidence of increasing damage from coastal flooding; of coastal wetlands and mangroves; projected increased flooding due to glacier melt in Himalayas; and decreased river flows due to glacier recession. The Study adds that the impacts have not yet become established trends.

(c) Recognizing the criticality of containing green house gas emissions, the Central Government has accorded host country approval to 599 Projects in the sectors of Energy Efficiency, Fuel Switching, Renewables, etc. since its inception under the Clean Development Mechanism (CDM) Projects.

(d) The Central Government has initiated a number of steps in terms of undertaking studies including the studies on glaciers in response to the reported situation.
